DRIFT Aerospace signs new Consignment deal with Allegiant Airlines

FLORIDA (October 10th, 2022) – DRIFT Aerospace is pleased to announce a new partnership with Allegiant Airlines for the consignment of surplus materials from a fleet which consists of over 100+ Airbus A319 and A320 aircrafts flown by Allegiant. The consignment consists of various powerplant material including engine blades, supports, nozzles, disks, as well as airframe material such as ovens, coffee makers and much more.

The aviation & aerospace industry has gone through substantial transition. As the market responds and rebounds to changes and challenges that have been presented, new partnerships are being formed and new alliances created. DRIFT Aerospace has a proven track record in supporting global operators around the globe and this new partnership will continue to support that vision. With the addition of parts from Allegiant Airlines surplus material we will continue to market the material and create and support a variety of supported platforms at DRIFT Aerospace.

For more information feel free to reach out to Adam Stewart or a member of DRIFT Aerospace.

Let us DRIFT you in the right direction!
